I'm an MBA with a finance and digital journalism background turned Full-Stack Developer. I can apply marketing and project management skills to a development environment to create engaging, effective websites and applications.

I am looking for a Junior Front-End, Back-End, or Full-Stack Developer position where I am given the opportunity to learn quickly and apply what I've learned to contribute to meaningful projects. I am also looking for positions where my project management, marketing, communication, and training skills can be utilized.
